No prisoners appeared before the Criminal Court at the "plea term" on Monday. A jury was drawn for the next regular term. The governor has not yet assigned a judge to try the cases in which Judge Perkins is disqualified, but will doubtless do so before the regular term in August.

Judge Perkins of the Criminal Court began last week a new method of dealing with violators of the liquor law. He sentenced all convicted to terms of four months on the county road, excepting one or two who were old or crippled, or there were other more or less extenuating circumstances. This, Mr. Perkins says, will be the policy of the court hereafter.

Count over the few mercantile concerns that have failed in this city in the last twenty years. Don't you know it is true that every one of them was literally crowded out of business by the livelier more progressive competitor who ADVERTISED? Not a one of the failures in DeLand was a business that advertised in The News. Think it over.

Up to noon yesterday, 16,950 of the forthcoming DeLand Booklets had been subscribed for. It is desired that 20,000 to 25,000 copies should be printed—the more printed and circulated the better it will be for the town. The work will be done at odd times during the summer by The News Publishing Company, at just about cost, being used as a filler when other work is not rushing. It is only by printing them in this manner that they can be turned out at this price. Orders are being taken for any quantity; if you have not already placed an order, do so at once. Call up Phone Fifty, or stop any one from The News office on the street. Orders may be given to any member of The News force, sent in by mail or telegraph, or shouted from the house-tops. Get em in.
